ONLINE PRIVACY POLICY

This notice explains the online information practices of the Center for Integral Health and its website, <http://www.centerforintegralhealth.com>. You can use the website to read about the Center for Integral Health and its doctors, review new patient information, learn a little about homeopathy and click support links. The Site is for informational purposes only. Case taking and prescribing does not occur through the site.

No types of personally identifiable information are collected through the website. The site does not use cookies to grab information and there are no online forms. As far as we know, except for normal server website functions (number of hits) for Internet search engines managed by the ISP, no personal types of information is collected through the server managed by <http://www.register.com>.

Since we do not collect personally identifiable information on the website, we do not have web-based information to report in response to legal process such as to a court order, subpoena, disclosure in response to a law enforcement agency's request; nor do we have website based information about you to investigate, prevent, or take action regarding illegal activities, suspected fraud, situations involving potential threats to the physical safety of any person, violations of our terms of use, or as otherwise required by law. In addition, we do not have web-based information to transfer about you if we are acquired by or merged with another company.

Our web pages do not use "cookies" or "web beacons." "Cookies" are text files placed in your computer's browser to store your preferences. Websites that use Cookies would not tell us your e-mail address or other personally identifiable information anyway, unless you provided this information to us. "Web beacon" code would monitor the user behavior and collect data about the visitors viewing a web page.

The Center for Integral Health website contains links to other sites whose information practices may be different than ours. Consult the privacy notices of the other sites since we have no control over information that is submitted to, or collected by third parties or other websites.

Since we do not collect personal information through the website, you do not need to worry about physical, electronic, or managerial procedures to prevent unauthorized access, maintain data security, or information collection methods related to web-based information gathering or online data storage.

A problem with one part of the Online Privacy Policy does not negate the viability of any other part.

We do not monitor or control who uses our site, nor those of outside third parties who are not bound by this privacy notice. Parents are responsible for their minor child's use.

Questions or concerns about the Center for Integral Health's online privacy policy can be directed to CIHLombard@aol.com.

This privacy notice may change without notice, but will be posted on the site and you can periodically review this policy to know what information we collect, how we use it, and to whom we disclose it. The Privacy Notice posted on this site was updated on or about January, 2010.
